'48 Hours' to feature Belle

Gambling on the Alton Belle Riverboat Casino will be featured Wednesday, Dec. 11, on the CBS news program 48 Hours.

The one-hour show airs at 9 p.m. that day.

A CBS crew cruised up the river with 300 gamblers Oct. 25 and caught the action, CBS producer Thomas Flynn said.

Hattie Kauffman, correspondent for CBS Morning News, interviewed gamblers and people in downtown Alton.

48 Hours is focusing on Alton and Iowa to show the spread of gambling along the river, away from Las Vegas and Atlantic City, Flynn said.

Steel trade pact urged

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

As Congress closed its session last week, the American steel industry was on U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello's mind.

Costello, D-21st District, introduced a late-night, last-minute "Sense of Congress Resolution" urging President George Bush's administration to finalize a tough multilateral steel agreement as part of the international trade agreement talks now taking place in Uruguay, so that the agreement would be in place before the present Voluntary Restraint Agreements on steel expire in March.

"If these protections expire without an agreement, we are left with an Administration that is terribly lax in its enforcement of international trade violations," Costello said.

Other than the VRAs, the domestic steel industry has little protection from foreign imports, Costello said.

"The trade laws on the books now should be sufficient, but the (Bush) Administration refuses to enforce them," Costello said.

"If Korea, Brazil and other countries are not going to be penalized for breaking U.S. trade laws, then Congress has to act to prevent any erosion in our industrial base."

Costello said that, prior to enactment of the VRAs, there were frequent violations of international trade laws and the violators usually went unpunished.

He said that, when President Bush signed the last VRAs, Bush promised there would be a trade agreement "at least as tough" before the VRAs expired.

"Congress needs to send a strong signal to our trading partners that a new trade agreement on steel must be in place before present protections expire next March," Costello said.

Buddy Davis, director of District 34 of the United Steelworkers of America, called Costello's resolution a "good first step."

But Davis said that, if the Bush Administration fails to negotiate a trade agreement, he believes the VRAs should be extended.

'Infamy' remembered Lives changed after Dec. 7, 1941

(First of two parts)

By Liz Quirin
Staff writer

Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941, dawned like any other day for servicemen stationed in and around Pearl Harbor. But that day, described by President Franklin D. Roosevelt as a date which "will live in infamy," would dramatically change the lives of those who were there, and for the rest of the world as well.

For Americans, it was the beginning of World War II.

Some of the men who were stationed at Pearl Harbor — members of the Army, the Navy and the Army Air Corps — shared their stories with the Journals from that day. All said they will always remember where they were and what happened when they realized the bombing raid, which began at 7:55 a.m., was not just another drill.

Walter Rainsor of Belleville, an Army Infantryman stationed at Schofield Barracks, remembers the day vivid details.

"I woke up early, took a leisurely shower, got dressed and headed to the mess hall," Rainsor said.

Rainsor and a friend, Pfc. Ernest W. Rickenbacker, had been taking flying lessons and would have soloed Dec. 7.

"We celebrated too much the night before and had to cancel our solo flight," Rainsor said.

"Some of the guys in the class with us went up and were shot out of the air."

Rainsor said he got his breakfast, sat down, and almost immediately heard an explosion, but the men thought it was a plane that crashed at Wheeler Field.

The American military had been conducting war exercises, and many of the men thought the attack was more practice.

A second, louder explosion shook the building.

"No one said a word, but we all got up and headed for both exits," Rainsor said.

Rainsor said he could see the planes clearly because they were as low as two-story buildings and machine-gunning anything and everything in sight.

Rainsor headed for the supply room to get a weapon, and the only one he found was an M-1 rifle usually used for training purposes. He grabbed the rifle, some ammunition, went outside and began firing at the Japanese planes.

Rainsor continued shooting until he ran out of ammunition and returned to the building for more.

Later, he ran into the barracks to wake some

Police arrest three for selling 500 'hits' of LSD

Two Quad City residents and a Belleville man were arrested Monday after allegedly selling about 500 "hits" of LSD to undercover agents.

The alleged buy and subsequent bust took place outside the 7-Eleven convenience store, 1207 N. Broadway Ave., just before 7 p.m. Nov. 25, Granite City Police Chief Don Knight said.

His department assisted the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwest Illinois in the sting operation, he said.

Arrested were Richard D. Genovese II, 21, of the 2800 block of Marshall Avenue in Granite City, Bryant E. Carroll, 19, of the 1900 block of Fourth Street in East Madison, and Daniel Dalton Jr., 19, of Belleville.

Each was charged Tuesday with unlawful delivery of a controlled substance in relation to the incident, and all three men were being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of bond.

Bond for Carroll and Dalton is $100,000 each. Genovese was charged with an additional count of unlawful delivery of a controlled substance for allegedly selling between 15 and 200 hits of LSD to an undercover agent Nov. 1. His bond was set at $175,000.

Knight said his department has seen an increase in LSD use in recent years.

"In Granite City, it is a comeback drug," he said. "It was prominent in the 1960s and is now coming back."

That is bad news, Knight said.

"(Possession with intent to distribute LSD) is still a Class X felony (in Illinois), with a penalty of 6 to 30 years, because it is mind altering and causes hallucinations and flashbacks, which can continue for years and years."

"I think the sentence indicates just how serious the drug is," Knight said.

Simple possession of LSD is a Class 1 felony, carrying a 4- to 12-year sentence, Knight said.

LSD, or "acid," is sold in many forms, Knight said. Prominent means of distribution are small stamp-like pieces of perforated paper which sell for about $5, Knight said.

Lakeside Airport's future to be explored at meeting

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

The future of the Nichols Restricted Landing Area on Illinois 111, more generally known as Lakeside Airport, will be the focus of a regional meeting Tuesday, Dec. 3.

A lukewarm reaction by the Pontoon Beach Board of Trustees greeted a letter from the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council read at the Nov. 26 board meeting.

The East-West Council, an organization linking cities and counties in the bi-state metropolitan region, is sponsoring the airport meeting at the City Hall in Granite City at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Input at the session also will help to determine the proposed creation of a Lakeside Airport Authority.

Purpose of the meeting is to assess interest by the communities of Granite City, Collinsville, Pontoon Beach, Madison and Venice pertaining to the establishment of an airport authority for the purpose of studying, purchasing, developing and operating Lakeside Airport, Les Sterman, East-West executive director, informed the village board.

"Would the mayor care to poll the audience (on) how they feel about this?" asked Village Trustee Marvin Ribbing.

"They held an election two years ago and the people turned it down," said Bob Barthelme, who was seated in the audience.

"If we lose the airport, they will never have that federal airspace again," said Trustee Bob Abel.

"I believe it would be a benefit to the community if we get it (the airport) back," Abel said.

Mayor Glen Wilson noted there has been a "lot of pros and cons" on the airport question.

"There are a lot of people for it and a lot of people are against it," Wilson said.

The airport land is adjacent to Pontoon Beach but is not within the village boundaries.

The property was owned by the late Bill Nichols.

It currently is held in trust on behalf of his estate.

On June 10, 1986, it had been annexed into the village. But on Oct. 16, 1988, the land was deannexed at Nichols' request and after a court declared the annexation illegal.

In 1984 and 1985, Collinsville attempted to purchase the land without success.

On Nov. 6, 1990, an effort was made to save the airport through a referendum establishing the Lakeside Airport Authority.

McKinley funding trimmed

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

The McKinley Bridge was the only Metro East area project to be reduced when Congress cut a million here and a million there before the last-minute passage of the federal highway bill last week.

Funds to help finance repairs on the McKinley Bridge, owned by the city of Venice, were trimmed from $7 million to $6 million, according to U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville.

The 81-year-old bridge carries vehicular traffic across the Mississippi River between Venice and St. Louis.

Costello said he is hopeful that federal funds from other sources will eventually bring the total federal contribution to the project back up to $7 million.

The McKinley project includes replacing the main-span railings, building a new concrete deck and widening the westbound lanes at the Venice side approach.

Federal funding for the project is limited to 35 percent of the total cost because McKinley is a toll bridge. The remainder of the funding is expected to come from Illinois, Missouri and Venice.

Costello said the $151 billion transportation bill contains about $100 million for projects in Madison and St. Clair counties.

In addition to the McKinley Bridge, the bill contains $10.5 million to resurface the traffic deck on the Bads Bridge between East St. Louis and St. Louis, in conjunction with already-funded rehabilitation of its light-rail deck.

The federal bill also includes $136 million for a feasibility study for a new bridge across the Mississippi River. Recent studies indicate a new bridge will be necessary by the end of the century.

"These bridge improvements are vital to the Illinois work force, which makes up 23 percent of the downtown St. Louis employment sector," Costello said.

"If our (bi-state) region is to remain competitive, these expected to come from Illinois,

An as yet undetermined amount of clothing was stolen from Glik's Department Store in the Bellemore Village Shopping Center early Thanksgiving Day.

An employee of the Bellemore Shell service station told police he noticed a broken window to the department store shortly after 7 a.m. Nov. 28.

Some clothing was recovered by police from the sidewalk in front of the store, and a car jack was recovered from inside the building after it had apparently been used to break the window.

Escape from Venice jail prompts call for action

Two escapes from the Venice City jail in a two-week span have officials considering a change in procedure.

Both of the fugitives escaped during the booking process, and were subsequently found and jailed.

At about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, a 20-year-old man from Oakland, Calif., had been arrested on suspicion of unlawful possession of a weapon by a felon when he dove through a closed window on the front of the police station and fled on foot. Three police officers were within 10 feet of the suspect, Sgt. Theo Adams said.

The man was located about an hour later in the 600 block of Broadway. Adams said the man was wearing a black skirt, a T-shirt, a black stocking cap and a long brown woman's coat when he was apprehended the second time.

The man and another Oakland resident, visiting relatives for the holiday, were both arrested at 3:20 p.m. Nov. 27 after an off-duty police officer reported seeing them run through the housing project carrying weapons, Adams said.

He said the first man is alleged to have possessed a .45 caliber semi-automatic pistol, and the other is alleged to have had a high-capacity, semi-automatic "U2-type" weapon.

Because of the court holiday, the men were being held on probable cause pending the formal filing of charges, Adams said. A third man, a Madison resident, is also being held for an unrelated weapons incident, alleged to have occurred early Thursday in the alley behind the 1000 block of Market Street, Adams said.

Less than two weeks ago, another man escaped from Venice police by diving through the same window. The window was open when Andre Brawley, 21, of the 900 block of College Street, escaped Nov. 13. He had been arrested after the Department of the Navy informed Venice police he was wanted for desertion.

Brawley was apprehended two days after the escape, and turned over to naval authorities. Venice Alderman Silver Franklin said something should be done to avoid future escapes.

He said a revision of the arrest and booking procedure should be considered, as well as the possibility of installing a different type of unbreakable window at the station.

"I ruled out the possibility of installing bars on the window to the station, which is located in the same building as City Hall. 'I don't know of anywhere where they have bars on the windows at City Hall, and I don't think we want to be the first,' Franklin said. 'But I do think the situation should be examined to see what can be done to prevent future incidents.'"

Assistant attorney general to face Haine in primary

An Alton man who has accused Madison County State's Attorney William Haine of blunders and inefficiency hopes to foil Haine's re-election bid.

Dan O'Neill, an Illinois assistant attorney general, said Nov. 26 he would seek the Democratic nomination for state's attorney in the March 17 primary election.

O'Neill, 53, who works in the revenue division of the attorney general's office, said he would formally announce his plans in a few days.

"Right now, I'm pretty positive about it," he said.

"(Haine) is one of the few incumbents in years who has been asked by a newspaper to resign, not once but twice," O'Neill said. The Belleville News-Democrat called for Haine's resignation early in his administration.

"He has no experience in criminal law," O'Neill said. "He promised to do away with plea bargaining, and he promised not to hire (Don) Weber, a Republican who was the county's attorney from 1980 to 1984, as an assistant state's attorney but later fired him."

O'Neill called plea bargaining a necessary part of the criminal justice process and said Haine knew he could not eliminate it. If properly handled, plea bargaining serves the ends of justice, O'Neill said.

He said he had delayed a decision on the race because of the possibility that Dick Allen, a Granite City Democrat who was state's attorney from 1984 to 1988, might run.

O'Neill was an assistant state's attorney under both Allen and Nicholas Byron. "I think Dan would be a formidable candidate," Allen said. "If he can put it together, I'll be supporting him. If he can't, I'm not ruling myself out."

The Madison County Democratic Central Committee endorsed Haine's candidacy two weeks ago. No one else sought the endorsement.

The committee also endorsed Haine in 1988, turning its back on Allen, then the incumbent.

Haine, who defeated Allen in the 1988 Democratic primary, said that O'Neill "must account for his role in the Allen administration."

"My candidacy offers the voters a choice," Haine said. "Do they want to go back to the Allen-O'Neill days when justice was done part-time in the hallways of the courthouse, or do they wish to continue the progress we've made over the last three years?"

Haine said O'Neill was "criticizing some of the mistakes that were made in the early days when I was trying to repair the damage done during the Dick Allen-Dan O'Neill years."

Haine said his administration was sending more felons to prison and, in cooperation with police, had slowed the growth of crime in the county.

O'Neill said Haine's blunders include an Alton case in which five youths first charged with murder later were cleared in the killing through investigation by defense lawyers. Comments made in that case by Weber later led to his firing.

O'Neill said another blunder resulted in dismissal of reckless homicide charges against an East St. Louis woman because she was not brought to trial within the required 120 days.

Haine has said the oversight was the result of a misunderstanding that has since resulted in a judicial clarification of rules.

"I would try to have an efficient office and implement safeguards so that blunders don't happen," O'Neill said.

O'Neill is a graduate of Georgetown University and John Marshall Law School. He practiced law in Alton with his brother, the late Patrick O'Neill, for about 10 years.

O'Neill served a two-year term as state representative in 1985-86 and has worked for the Illinois secretary of state's office.

State issues discussed on cable

The Hoffman Report, hosted by State Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville, is giving cable television viewers an inside look at state government issues. Madison County viewers can see the report on Wednesdays at 5 p.m. on Concom Channel 10. St. Clair County viewers can see the program on Continental Cable at 6 p.m. Mondays and 10:30 p.m. Fridays on the local access channel (Channel 3 in some areas).

"The show is a lot of fun to do and I think it is a great way to keep my constituents informed on the major issues confronting the Legislature," Hoffman said. "Our format allows my guests and me to deeply delve into policy decisions."

The Hoffman Report features interviews and discussions with state leaders and policy makers on issues affecting Illinoisans.

Past guests have included Terrance W. Gainer, director of the Illinois State Police, Robert Leininger, superintendent of the State Board of Education, and Sue S. Suter, director of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

"I hope people will tune us in to learn more about the issues that will affect all of us in the upcoming legislative session," Hoffman said. "We try to keep the discussions lively. I think people will find the shows interesting."

Bridge

bridges must be major transportation priorities. "Commuters in Illinois want to see quick action on improving the existing downtown bridges, and studying the need for a new bridge."

"This legislation makes a strong commitment to improving the infrastructure in Southwestern Illinois, which is greatly needed to boost the local economy."

Costello, a member of the House Public Works and Transportation Committee, said that, in addition to meeting the immediate transportation needs of the area, it will provide the economy with an immediate influx of jobs and federal funds.

Other area projects in the bill include:

— Federal funding of $3.4 million for construction of an interchange on Interstate 255 near Saugat designed to provide access to the St. Louis Downtown Airport Business Park.

— A feasibility study costing $200,000 for a four-lane boulevard with a center median leading from East St. Louis to the future

"These bridge improvements are vital to the Illinois workforce, which makes up 23 percent of the downtown St. Louis employment sector."

— Jerry Costello
U.S. Representative

national park extension to Illinois of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial.

— For the Alton Bypass, $4.4 million for land acquisition and engineering. The bypass will run from the I-270 interchange with I-255 near Edwardsville to Highway 67 north of Godfrey. Final-phase funding of $16 million for engineering and design work on the St. Clair County corridor of the Metro Link light-rail system.

Trustees delay dirt dumping permit

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

Permits were approved at Tuesday's meeting of the Pontoon Beach Village Board of Trustees to allow fill dirt to be placed on property owned by Earl Arnold and Otto Kreher.

But a permit to allow Ron Shafer to dump fill dirt on his property on the east side of Illinois 111 was held up pending a check of the area.

Arnold and Kreher have property on Bruene Drive near Lake Street, west of Illinois 111 and south of Pontoon Road.

"Are you going to fill in near the lake?" Trustee Loren Madison asked.

"No, we are just raising the (level of) existing property," Arnold replied. Property owned by the two men on the Long Lake side of Bruene Avenue has been eroding, Village Clerk Mary Warren said.

Ron Shafer told the village board that one of his brothers, Sam Shafer, had received a low-bid contract to remove dirt and rocks from an excavation site where a new storm sewer line is being installed on the north side of Pontoon Road.

The work is part of the highway construction program that will widen Pontoon Road to three lanes from the railroad tracks at the west end of the village to Illinois 111.

The dirt and rocks being excavated and hauled away will be sold as fill, but first requires being stockpiled somewhere prior to its resale.

Ron Shafer had been accepting the fill on property he owns, he said. On Monday, Nov. 25, the dumping was halted by Police Chief Clint Ballew, who said Shafer had no permit.

Shafer contended he had been selling dirt from that location for about 18 years.

"We want to store the dirt for resale," he said.

He assured the trustees that the dirt was not being placed on the west side of Illinois 111, where the U.S. Corps of Engineers has a cease and desist order against Ron Shafer, alleging that the area is federally protected wetlands.

Trustee Louis Whitsell said the ordinance requiring a permit to fill was passed some time ago because of fill going into Long Lake.

The narrow lake was getting smaller and smaller because of people dumping dirt and rocks along the shoreline, he said. Whitsell has expressed this concern on numerous occasions.

Ballew said he received a report of dirt being dumped on Ron Shafer's property.

"I asked the clerk's office and was told that he had not got a permit. When we are told there is no permit, what else can I do?" Ballew asked.

Health Inspector Bill O. Ross said in a report to the board that on Nov. 21 he had received a call from Fred Shafer, another of Ron Shafer's brothers, saying Ron was dumping dirt on his property without a permit. Ross also said that a police officer had informed one of the truck drivers to stop any further dumping until a permit was issued.

According to Ross, Fred Shafer insisted that a complaint be filed against Ron Shafer and had signed the complaint on Nov. 22. On Nov. 25, Ross said, Fred Shafer called him again to report Ron Shafer was dumping dirt once more on the property and that he (Fred) wished to sign another complaint.

At that time, Ron Shafer informed a police sergeant that dirt was being dumped in other places in the village and those areas also should be checked.

Ross and the police sergeant drove to three different locations and found where dirt allegedly had been dumped at two business places on Illinois 111 and on property at the end of B Street on the lake side of Bruene Avenue.

The latter property was owned by Earl Arnold, who was advised that a permit from the village was necessary prior to any more dirt being dumped.

Arnold agreed to seek a permit at the next village board meeting.

Sam Shafer, the truck driver, also was warned not to dump any dirt at the Arnold property until a permit was obtained, Ross said.

Chief Ballew said at the board meeting that other individuals in the village are obtaining dumping permits.

"We had a call about a guy (dumping dirt) today (Tuesday). We went to check and he had his permit with him."

"We had a new ordinance passed last year that, if you are going to dump a load of dirt, you've got to get a permit," the police chief said.

Ron Shafer's neighbor, who happens to be his brother, Fred Shafer, alleged that Ron also was expanding his dirt and rock dumping operation.

Ron Shafer said that where the dirt is stockpiled is zoned a commercial area and that he is not expanding the present site.

"If you do expand you will be out of order," Mayor Glen Wilson cautioned Ron Shafer.

"I think you should take a close look at it for yourself," Ron Shafer replied.

"I think you should take a really close look at it," urged Fred Shafer, who also was at the meeting. "You told him (Ron) to stop (dumping) three months ago and he continued."

Wilson told Ron Shafer to stop stockpiling the dirt until he could get a permit.

Trustee Bob Douglas suggested that the zoning administrator, Jim Hill, and the health inspector go out and see the area in question.

"Take the chief (Ballew) with you and, if there is any violation, the chief can charge them," Douglas said.

who were still sleeping and assured them the attack was real.

"The wounded were growing in number as one soldier would try to help another, and he, too, would be wounded," Raiser said.

Raiser, and the men with him, were later taken to their defensive positions to guard against a possible attempt by the Japanese to invade the island.

Some of the wounded soldiers and sailors were taken to the U.S. Naval Hospital at Pearl Harbor where A. Glenn Scandrett of Belleville was a corpsman.

"I was on duty in the Sick Officers Quarters, and I heard explosions but didn't see planes," Scandrett said. "It didn't surprise me because I thought our own forces were doing the practice, even diving on Pearl Harbor for practice."

Scandrett was on the third floor and ran down to the second when the explosions persisted. "I saw a Japanese plane with the rising sun on the side of the plane," Scandrett said. "I saw one Japanese plane hit over the harbor, and it headed straight for the hospital," Scandrett said. "It veered off at the last minute and hit a corner of the building."

The plane destroyed a laboratory and killed rabbits used for pregnancy testing, Scandrett said.

Shortly after the bombing began, patients started coming in to the 300- to 350-bed hospital. Scandrett said the hospital filled with patients who died before wave after wave of casualties filled the hospital.

"We had two or three changes; most of the patients were dead, many of them burn patients and an awful lot of drownings," he said. "We had about 900 patients in the first 24 hours."

The hospital morgue was equipped for two people. But Scandrett said bodies were stacked there and also taken to a nearby ball field.

"We had a softball diamond filled with dead bodies by Dec. 8," he said.

The first night after the attack, he remembers sleeping under the dining room table in the Sick Officers Quarters. Other than cat naps, the men stationed at the hospital slept little.

"We couldn't go to our quarters after dark because the Army was trigger happy," Scandrett said. He said the men were afraid of being shot by Americans who were ready to shoot anything that moved.

"Planes from the Enterprise, (an American Navy aircraft carrier) came in that night, and they were shot down by the Americans," Scandrett said. "They couldn't tell who they were."

Scandrett doesn't remember eating that day. "There was a lot of confusion, frustration, anger, mostly because we wondered why someone could make such an error to get so close and cause such destruction."

Confusion and real fear stand out in the mind of Milt Haberman of Fairview Heights, a member of the Army Air Corps. Haberman ate breakfast in the mess hall, and was on his way back to his wing in the barracks when the venetian blinds began shaking.

"I was ready to go to Mass, and just as I went out there, all was confusion and terror," Haberman said. "Did you ever have your skin crawl with terror?"

Haberman said his buddy, on duty in the mess hall, was killed when a bomb hit the building.

"We finally got organized, and everybody ran back to the barracks to get personal possessions," Haberman said.

He picked up several packages of cigarettes and stuffed them into his pockets. The cigarettes may have saved him from a more serious wound later that day when he was hit by a projectile.

"I couldn't move, but when a big wave of Japanese planes came over, I started to run across the runway," Haberman said.

Japanese machine guns rained overhead, and the men lay down on the runway trying to protect themselves as best they could.

"I put my hands over my head," Haberman said. "I thought I was dead."

Haberman said he used to relive those hours of terror at meetings of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association.

The attack took the lives of more than 3,000 American servicemen, with 18 ships damaged or sunk.

Later, 13 of those ships were repaired and participated in the war. The Utah and the Arizona are the two vessels not refloated after the attack.

An Invitation To INACTIVE CATHOLICS

My Dear Brother and Sisters—

I would like to take this opportunity, during this holy and penitential season of Advent to reach as many inactive Catholics as I can. I want to personally invite you to return to the active practice of your Catholic faith.

I realize that your reasons for leaving the active practice of your faith is as varied and as numerous as there are inactive Catholics. For some, it's because you're angry with God (e.g., suffering the death of a loved one, a business failure, or seeing your dreams and hopes die, etc.). For others, it is because you feel bitter over the way you were mistreated by a priest, sister, or church official (e.g., marriage to a non-Catholic, by being divorced, or numerous remarriages, etc.). And for still others, you feel that the changes of Vatican Council II (e.g., Communion in the hand, lay ministers, Eucharistic ministers, etc.) have destroyed the integrity and heritage of the Catholic Church, the church you grew up with and loved deeply.

No matter what your personal reason(s) is for leaving the active practice of your Catholic faith there is one common denominator underlying all the above-mentioned valid reasons: An intense and deeply rooted pain. A pain so intense that if not healed it will lead to annihilation.

I understand your reasons for leaving the active practice of your Catholic faith. But, I ask that you please understand that we are an imperfect church (living in an imperfect world) and as such we are prone to make mistakes. Please take a few minutes now and seriously, prayerfully consider returning to the active practice of your Catholic faith. That is, please seek to heal that intense pain of being separated from your family, the church.

If I can be of any help or assistance; or if you have any questions or concerns, please give a call at: 1-618-931-2916 and ask for "Father Bud" DeGrand. Or write: St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, 2301 Pontoon Rd., Granite City, IL 62040.

Retirement: Early out plan could affect 600 at SIUE

An estimated 600 of roughly 2,100 Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville employees could be eligible for an early retirement option that will be proposed next year.

The estimate was made by SIUE Vice Chancellor Donald Wilson, who said SIUE was in favor of legislation to extend the early retirement option, now available to most other state employees, to state universities.

Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, is prefiling a bill offering the early retirement opportunity to state university employees. He said several SIUE employees had asked for the opportunity and SIUE President Earl Lazerson "told me he supported it 110 percent."

University employees were not included in the legislation that passed this summer. Under it, most other state workers could purchase up to five years of additional service credits at half the normal employee contribution and add up to five years to their age to boost retirement benefits.

To qualify, employees must either be 50 years old by the end of this year and have at least 20 years of service or have at least 30 years of state service.

Vadalabene said the bill that will be proposed to lawmakers during their session next spring is still being drafted but he expects it will be "basically the same" as current law.

Wilson said SIUE anticipates that about half those eligible for early retirement would take the option.

He said school officials are also projecting that, in order to

"We're also going to lose some very high-quality people that it would be difficult if not impossible to replace."

— Donald Wilson
SIUE Vice Chancellor

cover the cost of accumulated vacation and sick leave days for those retiring, at least 25-30 percent of the positions left vacant would have to be left open to recruit those costs.

Wilson said the length of time for the vacancies would vary with each position. The state Universities Retirement System has raised a red flag about the early retirement option.

Associate Executive Director Dennis Spitz said as many as 16,000 state university employees could be eligible if the current law was extended to them.

If only 50 percent of the employees exercised the option, the system's payouts would increase by another $200 million a year. Unless additional funds are provided to the system, it could be bankrupt by the end of the decade, Spitz said.

Wilson said an early retirement option could also be a "two-edged sword." It could reduce some costs by opening up positions to younger employees at the lower end of the pay scale, but "we're also going to lose some very high-quality people that it would be difficult if not impossible to replace."

Meanwhile, about 3,400 of 5,000 applications for other state employees to choose the early retirement option have been returned so far.

Alton Mental Health Center Director Tom Richards said he anticipates 51 or 52 veteran staffers, in all job categories, will take early retirement.

About 30 who care for clients directly will be replaced by their Dec. 30 retirements, he said. The cost of benefit payments to those leaving will be covered by lower salaries for new employees and not filling non-direct-care positions immediately, Richards added.

About 10 percent of the Alton Mental Health Center work force is expected to take the early retirement option and leave by the year's end. About 10 percent of the department's workers statewide are also expected to retire early.

The director of the department, William Murphy, 56, became the latest to announce that he will take advantage of the early retirement opportunity. Gov. Jim Edgar, who appointed Murphy to the post less than a year ago, said a search for a successor is still under way.

Two men arrested for weapons

Two Venice men were arrested last week on felony weapon charges.

Trayon L. Watt, 21, of the 200 block of Abbott Street, Venice, was arrested by Venice police at 4:40 a.m. Nov. 28.

Watt was charged Wednesday with unlawful possession of firearm ammunition by a felon.

Venice police allege that Watt possessed 9mm hollowpoint ammunition in his right pants pocket. Bond was set at $30,000.

Antonio Shipp, 20, of the 800 block of Main Street, Venice, was arrested just before 2 a.m. Nov. 27. He was charged Wednesday with unlawful use of a weapon by a felon.

Venice police allege that Shipp possessed a .38-caliber Smith and Wesson handgun and threatened a Venice police officer. Shipp was being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Shipp was sentenced to three years in a state prison Nov. 20, 1989, on a theft from a person charge.

Watt had recently been released from prison. He violated the curfew terms of his two-year probation on a previous unlawful weapon use charge. His probation was revoked and he was sentenced to two years in a state prison March 7.

According to Venice police, Watt also has a previous conviction for unlawful possession of a controlled substance in 1989.

Interest-free farm loans offered

Farmers in need of a financial boost for the 1992 planting season may be able to take advantage of an interest-free loan program sponsored by the Catholic Diocese of Springfield in Illinois.

Now in its fifth year, the Project Isidore farm loan program provided $52,000 in no-interest loans last year.

Thirty-five farmers received an average of $1,500 toward the purchase of seed, fuel, fertilizer and feed.

According to Joe Bergschneider, who along with his wife, Mary, is co-director of the Office for Rural Life, farmers in some areas of the diocese had a hard season this year.

He expects the loan program to be as popular as ever.

"Too much rain early in the season and the drought at the end of the summer were hard on farmers, particularly in the eastern part of the diocese," he said.

Loan applications are now available from the Bergschneiders at the Office for Rural Life, R.R. 1, Box 10, Alexander, Ill. 62601 or by calling 217-478-2251.

The loans are interest-free and are given with the understanding that recipients will return the amount borrowed the following year.

Contributions to the pool of funds available for loans may be sent to the same address.

The application deadline is Feb. 1, 1992.

The program is named after the patron saint of farmers, St. Isidore. It is administered by the rural life office and the Office for Finances, which put together a board to review the loan applications.

The 28 counties in the Springfield Diocese include Madison County.

•Airport

The issue was placed on the ballot, but was narrowly defeated 8,156 to 7,391 by voters from Granite City, Collinsville, Pontoon Beach and Namekoi Township.

Proponents of making it a public airport stressed that the airport would be eligible for federal and state funding for up to 95 percent of the total cost of constructing a more viable airfield.

The local area would only be responsible for 5 percent of the bill, it is contended.

The airport authority also would have the right to levy a maximum property tax rate of 7.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

At one time, more than 100 pilots kept their airplanes at Lakeside, but now only six or seven are there. Those pilots have an agreement with the Nichols estate to use the facility.

Several private pilots still cultivate the grass and do maintenance chores, keeping the airport alive and functional for the few planes that use the landing field.

The private airfield on the east side of Illinois 111, across from Horseshoe Lake State Park, is said to remain a valuable asset to this region.

It is a resource worth modernizing and bringing back to its past days of glory, according to a new metropolitan airport plan produced by the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council.

Lakeside's proximity to the network of highways make the airfield an attractive site for a public airport, the planners contend.

Lakeside Airport contains 150 acres and the property is protected from flooding by a levee. The present northwest/southeast turf runway is 2,400 feet in length.

The airport has clear approaches from all directions and could become an integral part of the federal aviation system by handling future demand in the area, if its sponsorship becomes public, the St. Louis Metropolitan Area General Aviation System Plan states.

The plan recommends that the ownership of Lakeside become public and that the sponsoring authority conduct a feasibility and master plan study.

A feasibility study would cost $30,000. An additional $50,000 would be required to complete a master plan study for the airfield.

Individuals and organizations invited to Tuesday's meeting include the mayors of the respective municipalities, the Federal Aviation Administration, the Illinois Department of Transportation's Division of Aeronautics, the Aircraft Owners and Pilots' Association, the Illinois Pilots Association and representatives of the Madison County Board, local chambers of commerce and local pilots.

Presentations and information distributed at the meeting will include a brief history of Lakeside Airport, an explanation of the purpose and need for the establishment of an airport authority and a discussion of the taxes, noise, safety, planning process and economic impact of the proposed airport, Sterman informed the trustees.

The Society of Service held an adult benefit Halloween dance Oct. 26 at the Mexican Honorary Commission, 1801 Spruce St. Bob Astorian, director of Court Services for Madison County; Sandy Crites, 6th Ward alderman; and Clayton "Jug" Harrison, street superintendent of Granite City, served as judges for the Halloween costumes.

Music for dancing was provided by J. Christopher, "The Dangerous One-Man Band." Attendance prizes were awarded throughout the evening.

Celestia Puryear, "Lady from Land of Oz," entertained those who wanted to participate in looking into the future.

Patrons for the event included Vesel Distribution, Pepsi Cola, Prairie Farms, Walls Unlimited, AMVETS Post 204, Thrifty Printing, Hudson Jewelers, Glik's, Bob Evans Restaurant, Charlie's, Planet Granite, Floral Essence, Middendorf, Quality Foods, Champion's Wedding and Party Room, Mexican Honorary Commission, Eddie's Lounge and Jack in the Box. Proceeds from the dance benefited the Phoenix Crisis Center, a shelter for domestic violence victims. The shelter is undergoing renovations. Once completed, the Society of Service will purchase needed items.

The members voted at their Nov. 6 meeting to help again the Disabled American Veterans with their Christmas party for the Special Children on Dec. 1, by providing help and funds for a "Story Teller."

The organization will next meet for a Dec. 4 Christmas party at Rizzo's Restaurant in Madison.

Devils can't be forgotten

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

For the first time in eight years, there is no Jesse Hall, Dale Turner or Erwin Claggett on the scene.

The Venice Red Devils were upended by Madison in the area's top Class A rivalry last year. Is it time to start underestimating Clinton Harris' team? With that question, the coach smiles like a fox in the hen-house.

than rebuilds. While the faces change, the Red Devil system doesn't. They put on loads of defensive pressure and wear the opposition out with the transition game. The results have been 182 wins and only 45 losses in the Harris era (an 80 percent winning percentage).

Of course, there has always been a future Division I player on the team in Hall (Michigan State), Turner (Northern Iowa) or Claggett (St. Louis U.). But who's to say there isn't a similar player waiting to step forward now?

"We're going to play a lot of younger kids, even some sophomores, in the varsity games this year," said Harris. "All of them have been brought up in this system, and I know what to expect out of just about all of them."

He expects the most out of 6-7 senior center Marcus Franklin. He led the Devils with 11.7 rebounds per game as a Venice went 24-5 in 1990-91. Franklin also averaged 12.8 points.

"Franklin is going to have to be the man, especially early in the season," said Harris. "Not too many people know much about him. Some people probably thought he graduated last year. But I think he's ready to step forward and be a leader. Marcus has gotten a little stronger and he's improved his offensive moves near the basket. He's also got a little better outside shot.

Franklin might be expected to carry more of the load than normal early because 6-2 senior forward Ivan Johnson will be academically ineligible until the second semester starts Jan. 13. Johnson was second on the team to Claggett last year with a 16.4 scoring average and he also averaged 7.9 rebounds.

"Ivan didn't take some tests, he flunked a couple of classes and got himself in trouble," said Harris. "He's working hard to get back for the second semester."

If all goes well, Johnson will make his debut Jan. 14 at Waterloo Gibault. The Hawks might be the top Class A team in the area, so the Devils need to be at full strength for that one.

Up front with Franklin to start the season will be 6-2 senior Lowell Newsome, like Franklin a transfer from Madison High School. Venice will use a three-guard offense with that duo. In the backcourt are 5-8 senior Johnathon Love, 5-7 senior Marcus Anderson and 5-5 junior Cedric Wiley.

"They're all very quick and good defensive players," said Harris. "We might have to rely a lot on defense early in the season."

Other forwards include 6-3 senior Ben McIntyre and 6-0 sophomore Richard Jones.

"Ben is going to be a strong player for us inside," said Harris. "Jones needs to build some confidence and he's going to be a good outside shooter. He still needs to become a little more physical to help us inside."

The Devils have some more size among their underclassmen with 6-5 junior Andrew Bradley, who will back up Franklin, and

Grapplers open with 2 victories in Centralia

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

The Warrior wrestling team celebrated Thanksgiving a day early Wednesday.

Granite City feasted on Centralia 62-6 and Carbondale 50-12 in Centralia. Coming in, coach Mike Garland was concerned with the Terriers and their 10 returning wrestlers. Those worries vanished along with any Carbondale hopes when the Warriors jumped out to a 27-0 lead.

"Carbondale had a couple of kids out, but I don't know if it would have made that much of a difference with all the points we scored," said Garland. "Naturally, you want to win and I was happy with how we performed. All in all, the fight and heart was there and that's what you look for early."

Pat Scheffer began the festivities by pinning Pete Traylor at 103 pounds in 3:40. T.J. Slay, a freshman, scored an impressive victory over Jesse Thorton at 112. Slay fell behind 5-0, but came back with six straight points to win.

"I wasn't impressed so much with Slay's technique, but he showed a lot of courage," said Garland. "He has some qualities that you just can't coach. When you see a kid do that, it makes things exciting."

Three straight pins by Ryan King (119), Jason Morelien (125) and Dan Hicks (130), put the Warriors ahead for good. Hicks was one of four Warriors to register pins in both matches. To make things even tougher for the opposition, no Warrior wrestler was pinned.

The Terriers picked up points when Damian Jones (135) tied Mark McKeen 5-5 and Mike

GC wrestling

Galanos (140) beat senior Doug Tubbs 11-2. Chris Hoffstot (145) and Jerry Heuschman (152) scored pinfall victories to make it 4-0.

Andy Richards (189) pinned Eric Chappell in 4:49 and Al Wilbred (275) ended it with an 8-1 decision over Johnson Bell.

Garland's lineup isn't set, as he has plenty of new faces and many of the returners are in different spots. As many as five of his wrestlers could be swapping weight classes.

"We have at least five guys who haven't made up their minds as to what weight they're going to wrestle," said Garland. "They're not going to fluctuate too much. Guys like Hoffstot and the Heuschmans might move a class."

The Warriors throttled the Orphans in much the same fashion as they did last year. It was 34-0 before the home team got on the scoreboard. Scheffer and Slay won on forfeits. King dominated Dustin Minor before taking a 21-7 victory.

Ernie Miller, a sophomore wrestling at 125, dropped Andy Crawford in 3:37. Hicks and McKeen registered pinfall victories as well. Jack Van Gilder decided Tubbs 13-6, but the Warriors won by pinfalls. Hoffstot, both Heuschmans and Richards had pins.

Edwardsville visits the Warriors on Friday, then Bloomington, Pekin, and Peoria come in on Saturday. Garland said that should be a good test.

Parties should not focus on alcohol

(The following article and recipes were provided by Pat Goldsmith, communications specialist for InTouch, a non-profit drug prevention and education organization based in St. Clair County.)

As the holiday season approaches, parties and special events crowd the calendar. Friends and families will gather to celebrate the season.

Often the height of this merriment is dulled by the excessive use of alcohol. Too often the focus of the holiday festivities is alcohol consumption instead of friendships.

When you party remember these tips:

1. Have non-alcoholic beverages available for those who choose not to drink alcohol and for those under 21 for whom alcohol is illegal.
2. If an alcoholic punch is served, use a non-carbonated base. Carbonation speeds up alcohol absorption.
3. Have someone attend bar, so guests do not over-serve themselves.
4. Always serve plenty of food with alcohol. High protein foods such as cheese and meat are digested slowly and help slow alcohol absorption.
5. Avoid salty foods that stimulate thirst.
6. Do not force drinks on your guest.
7. Stop serving alcohol at least one hour before the party is expected to end. Wind down with alcohol-free drinks.
8. Encourage guests who choose to drink to assign a designated driver.
9. If someone has had too much to drink call a cab or invite them to stay over.
10. Most of all, have fun! Keep your guests socializing with the use of music, games and stimulating conversation.

Gingerbread Walk invites guests to visit Belleville

By John J. Winkelman
Staff writer

Sidewalk sales and other special events bring shoppers to downtown Belleville throughout the year, but the second annual Gingerbread Walk brings them by the busload at Christmas.

Bus tours have already been booked including many one-day trips for St. Louis area groups and others from as far away as Wisconsin, Iowa, and Kansas, said Lynn Smith, director of community affairs for the Belleville Economic Progress.

The Gingerbread Walk offers cooks $2,000 in cash prizes for gingerbread creations, which will be displayed in the windows of downtown businesses from Nov. 22 through Jan. 2.

The success of the first Gingerbread Walk last year, with more than 135 entries, made the decision to hold it every year an easy one.

"It was very successful last year. The people who have been down there just love it. People who hadn't been downtown in 10 years came just to see the gingerbread," Smith said.

The idea for the Gingerbread Walk came from a brainstorming session to offer an added attraction to people visiting the Way of Lights at the Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows.

"Holly Lebar at the St. Clair County Historical Society basically came up with the idea and we just ran with it," Smith said.

Artworks to be auctioned

Artworks donated by faculty, students and alumni of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, plus works given by area artists and collectors, will be sold at auction on Wednesday, Dec. 4, sponsored by Friends of Art of SIUE.

Bidding begins at 7 p.m. in the Cottonwood Banquet Center at the Cottonwood Mall on Illinois 159 south of Edwardsville.

Doors open at 6 p.m. for a preview of the auction items. An admission fee of $2 will help defray the cost of auction catalogs and will make guests eligible for prizes. There will be a cash bar, and food will be available for purchase.

About 200 collectibles and works of art will be auctioned by veteran auctioneer Ed Ahrens, who has been donating his services to this annual fund raiser for many years.

Proceeds enable Friends of Art to continue a program of merit awards to students for exceptional work in art history.

Talk to Santa on WGNU

Shirley Adams' annual "Christmas show" will be aired on WGNU-AM 920 for three Sundays, starting today through Sunday, Dec. 16, from 4 to 7 p.m.

For the 17th consecutive year, Adams is inviting listeners to call who may want to share their holiday recipes and ideas, or to extend Christmas greetings to friends.

Adams also will be interviewing people from organizations which are helping others in need of food, toys or warm clothing. Santa will arrive at 5 p.m. each Sunday to talk with children of "all ages," Adams said.

She suggests that an adult stay on the telephone line, rather than a child, until Santa can get to each youngster's call. The telephone number to call, 1-314-454-0400, is toll free from most Granite City areas, Adams said.
